

Holmen's website policy

Holmen appreciates that you visit the Group's websites. This website policy explains how the information may be used without infringing copyright or breaking the rules for links to and from the websites of the Holmen Group: holmen.com, holmenpaper.com, iggesund.com, holmentimber.com, holmenskog.com, holmenenergi.com, www.holmen.ee and skarnas.com. When we refer in this document to "the website", we have in mind all the above websites. By visiting any of them, you also accept the contents of the policy.

Using the information on the website

The information on the website is general and should not be used as a basis for decisions in important matters. Holmen constantly seeks to keep the website up to date with correct and relevant information. Despite this, we cannot guarantee that the information is complete and accurate.

Copyright

The contents of the website are owned by Holmen or its subsidiaries and are protected by Swedish and other applicable legislation.

The contents may not be modified, distributed, reproduced, published, licensed, transferred or sold without the prior written consent of Holmen.

The website contains images which primarily belong to Holmen. If they belong to another copyright owner, this is stated.

How Holmen processes your personal information

Personal information is processed in accordance with the rules of the Personal Data Act, under which, among other things, you are entitled at any time to obtain information from us about the way in which we use your personal details. Holmen may make use of the personal information voluntarily supplied by you; however, this information is only used for the purposes you request and thereby agree to. Personal information is information that may identify you, for instance your personal identity number, name, address, e-mail address, phone number, logs from your browser, your computer's IP address and cookies (see below).

Holmen accepts responsibility for how we handle personal information on the website, although we do not accept responsibility for your privacy or the contents of any external websites to which we provide links.

Personal information linked to subscriptions for press releases and financial reporting is processed by a third party. Orders for annual reports, magazines and publications which do not go through a third party are processed by Holmen, and your personal information is stored at your request in our address file for future mailings.

Holmen receives and stores automatically information from your browser. This information is only used by us to improve our services and to obtain statistics. We do not sell the information to a third party.

Information about cookies

This website uses cookies, which are small text files that our website asks to be saved on your computer. The information in a cookie can be used to follow the surfing of users. Under the act relating to electronic communication which came into force on July 25, 2003, everyone who visits a website with cookies must be informed:

- that the website contains cookies
- what these cookies are used for
- how cookies can be avoided.

On Holmen's website we use session cookies. While you are connected to the website and are surfing a page, the cookie is stored temporarily in the memory of your computer and is deleted when you close your browser. The information collected is anonymous. You can switch off cookies using your browser's security settings. We use cookies for strictly technical reasons. Our statistical system measures, for example, the number of hits per page and the duration of visits. If any of Holmen's websites should start to use permanent cookies, which is not the case at present, the policy will be reviewed.

Revision of website policy

Holmen may revise its policy regarding websites at any time.

Contact us

If you have any questions or views about the contents, you are welcome to contact us:

Holmen AB (publ), Group Public Relations

P.O. Box 5407

SE-114 84 Stockholm

Tel +46 8 666 21 00

info@holmen.com

Last updated: 2009-12-08